THE LEADING BATSMEN.

Boetler, Central's elongated twirler, is leading high school batter for the season just closed, with a mark of .600 for the three games in which he played. Out of ten trips to the pan, he connected for six safeties, including several for extra bases.

Jimmy Donnelly, of Business, stands second, with an average of .462 for four games, in which he is credited with six hits out of a possible thirteen.

Nine batters, three from Central, three from Business, and three from Tech, batted in the .300 class. Two others hit for marks of .300, but are not classed among the leaders, for the reason they failed to take part in the necessary number of games.

The Hitters Wonders.

It is interesting to note that the champions are only third in team batting, with Central first and Tech second. The average of the Central team is .260 as against .208 for Tech, and .204 for Business. The light batting on the part of the various teams is substantial proof for the class of pitching talent in high school circles. Several players who stand well up among the local batsmen in amateur leagues are found among the weak batters.

The batting of the Eastern team was decidedly light, while the Western stickers were a little better. Seven out of a possible eleven players on the Capitol Hill team failed to connect for a single hit in the series. First Baseman Leland, with a mark of .265, was the only player on the team to show any form in stick work.

Post Season Series Eliminated.

In figuring the averages, the games of the post-season series were not considered because of the fact that but three of the teams played in the series. It would hardly be fair to other players to allow those who took part in the series the benefit of several extra games. Had these games been taken into consideration there is no doubt but that several changes in the standing of the players, and probably of the teams would have been effected. In the three games played Business and Tech showed a decided improvement in stick work, whereas Central batters slumped considerably.
